MEMORANDUM

TO: Community College Presidents

FROM: Neil Hollands, Project Coordinator
Virtual Learning Community

RE: Third Issue, "Creating a Virtual Learning Community"

Here are 15 copies of the third issue of "Creating a Virtual Learning Community," the newsletter which describes efforts being made for online learning in North Carolina community colleges.

This issue includes an update on the efforts made by hundreds of individuals from around the System to build our Community. It provides information about course materials and training that will soon be available. It lists many of the good people at each college who are involved in this great collaboration. It also lists some of the information about the recommended software, Blackboard CourseInfo, that you received in an earlier mailing.

Thank you again for your continued support of the Virtual Learning Community, an exemplary model for online education. The backing of the presidents has been one of the keys to its progress.
