Workshop for Community College Librarians

World View and UNC-Chapel Hill are pleased to announce a workshop for Community College librarians to be held April 14-15, 2005 at Wilson, Davis, and House libraries, UNC-Chapel Hill.

Workshop activities will include library instruction, outreach, and collection development to support a global curriculum. In a hands-on HTML lab, librarians will create an online tutorial on researching global issues and orienting international/new immigrant students, and customize it to fit their college web site. This workshop will be limited to 25 librarians.

There is no registration fee for this workshop. Hotel accommodations are available at the Best Western/University Inn (919/932-3000), Hwy. 54 East, Chapel Hill. The rate is $57.25 per night for a single or double room. Prices are guaranteed until March 14. Please identify yourself as a World View participant when making your reservation.

Registration forms for the workshop are available from World View, telephone 919/843-5332, or you may register online at www.unc.edu/world. Pre-registration ends April 4 to ensure the receipt of participant materials.

For more information please call Dr. Neil Bolick, Associate Director, World View at 919/843-5332 or Mr. Ken Whitehurst, Associate Vice President, NC Community College System at 919/807-7098.
