What one word or phrase would you use to describe your current state of mind about your program or your teaching?

If you asked your students the same, what do you think they would say?
What we will cover

• Review foundational information about performance requirements and State assessment policies.
• Provide information on distance learning reporting requirements.
• Provide COVID-19 clarifications and flexibilities in expanding distance learning.

Programs may measure skill gains through educational functioning level option by:

- Comparing initial educational functioning level, as measured by a pre-test, with the participant’s educational functioning level, as measured by a post-test;

- Awarding of credits or Carnegie units for States that offer adult high school programs that lead to a secondary school diploma or its recognized equivalent; or

- Enrolling in postsecondary education and training during the program year if the participant exits a program below the postsecondary level.

How to Measure Educational Functioning Level (EFL) Gain

34 CFR 462
Regulations at 34 CFR part 462

Process Secretary uses to approve tests for measuring EFL Gain

Process States must use to measure EFL gain using the assessment option.

A State may revise its assessment policy to allow testing exemptions to students in distance education who cannot be tested with an NRS-approved test.

OCTAE encourages States to examine their own State-imposed policies that may impact local providers to determine if those policies should be modified during the COVID-19 pandemic.
Reporting Distance Hours

- NRS Tips: Adult Education Participants in Distance Education (NRS Tips)
- States may, but are not required to, report in the National Reporting System (NRS) the time that participants spent on distance learning activities.
- The NRS Tips help States that record distance learning hours by providing options for reporting “proxy hours” rather than classroom instructional hours. The NRS Tips are available at https://nrsweb.org/sites/default/files/DistanceEdTipSheet-508.pdf.
The 12-Hour Rule

A “participant” is defined as an individual who completes 12 or more hours of instruction.

Intake, orientation, and assessment time may be counted towards the initial 12-hours of instruction.

For distance students, the initial 12-hours may be telephone, video, teleconference, or online communication, where participant and program staff can interact and through which participant identity is verifiable.

The initial 12-hours should be documented regardless of the State’s policy on reporting hours.

Yes, you can enroll a new student without an NRS-approved test providing that....

- You have determined the individual is eligible. A State may provide guidance to local providers on how eligibility can be determined or allow a local provider to follow its own procedures for determining eligibility in accordance with the statutory definition.

- You report in the NRS on all participants who have 12 contact hours, regardless of whether an NRS-approved pre-test was administered.

- An NRS-approved pre-test is administered in accordance with the State assessment policy as soon as feasible.
How do I report a student in the NRS that has no NRS-approved pre-test?

• You may use other assessment methods to provisionally assign an EFL for the purpose of placing students into the NRS when an approved NRS test cannot be administered.

• For example, a State may allow informal assessments that are content-driven or performance-driven such as locator tests, criterion referenced tests, or authentic assessments, or a State may choose to include crosswalks between informal assessment benchmarks to EFL levels.

• Local programs must administer NRS-approved pre-tests as soon as feasible and adjust the initial provisional EFL placement based on the pre-test score.
Can a participant achieve a Measurable Skill Gain (MSG) based on a provisionally assigned EFL?

A participant can achieve an MSG using several methods that may be available, even if the participant was provisionally placed in an EFL.
MSG Options for Provisionally Assigned EFL

- Educational Functioning level
- High school completion
- Entering postsecondary
- Credit completion
- Pre- and Post-test

Provisionally Assigned EFLs

- For the pre- and post-test option, a participant cannot achieve an MSG if the participant’s EFL placement was provisionally assigned using an informal assessment method.
- MSG can only be achieved if the provisionally-assigned EFL is later adjusted based on an NRS-approved pre-test score.
- The participant may, however, achieve an MSG with a provisionally-assigned EFL under the other methods.
