Update on Work on the CAA Review Team
Dr. Lisa Chapman gave a review of the work on revision with the CAA. The goal is to have the general education courses and the student learning outcomes developed by the end of May 2013. The second 30-credit hour requirement, including the pre-major pathways, will be slated to start in the fall of 2013. An overview of the online tools that will be used to assist faculty and students will be developed and implemented during 2013-2014.

Dr. Chapman discussed the research development question as it pertains to the joint review steering committee. In reviewing the current courses offered, and the Transfer Navigator tool, there was feedback that there was little usage of the Transfer Navigator. Some reasons given were that there are no strategies in place to keep up with the changes that have been taking place with courses on campus. An update in regards to the information gathered will be presented at the CTPA conference at Wake Tech on April 19, 2013.

Meetings have started with the discipline teams, beginning on March 8, 2013, at the UNC Center for School Leadership Development in Chapel Hill, NC. The UNC system faculty met to discuss the first six discipline courses that could be included in the general education component and potential student learning outcomes.

Additional discipline team meetings will also be held on April 8 and April 10 for the UNC System faculty. Dual sessions will be held on March 28, 2013, and April 26, 2013. From those meetings, there will be a finalized list of the first 30 credit hour component by May 31, 2013.

Dr. Chapman presented the issue of the language used in the discussion of the CAA revision. There is a question of the usage of “core”. There was concern that the changes will not allow the CAA to work like it did before, and also, the terminology will lead us to go in another direction that may not work as seamlessly as it should.

The policy goals have been revised from the original goals by the CAA Review Committee. Changes include the following: (Refer to CAA Proposed Policies)

- The proposed transfer policies would include in item 3, the language of “equivalency course credit”. The student would receive course equivalency credit. Each university would still maintain their “core”.
- The CAA Review Committee has removed “first year” and “second year” language and references to pathways on March 13, 2014.

There was discussion regarding where the additional 30 hours would come from, and the second year pathway. There was additional concern regarding the current 44-credit hour core that satisfied the lower division general education core at the senior institutions. Dr. Morrissey discussed studies that have been done that show that transfer students in the 2006-2008 timeline were not finishing the 44-credit hour core and not completing Math and English before transferring. There should be some measure to build guarantees for students within their first two years of their undergraduate career. This will assist with completion and graduation rates.

The advising piece is essential to the CAA revision process. There needs to be a partnership advising tool in place to assist students with the transfer process. There are proposed strategies to support the success of the student in items 1-4. Item 3 does include a tuition scholarship option for students within the AA/AS holding and maintaining a 3.0 GPA. To date, this item has not been taken up by the legislature.

Dr. Morrissey discussed the role of the TAC in the CAA revision process. The TAC should take the seven items listed in the proposed transfer policies and integrate those policies into the current CAA. The TAC now needs to start delving into the meaning of the seven items with changes within the CAA. The timeline for completion of these changes should be for February 2014, as it has to go through the two boards for approval, to ensure completion before registration for fall semester 2014. The TAC serves as the policy administrators of the CAA.

Dr. Morrissey also asked what the TAC wants their role to be in the future. She asked the TAC to consider the relevancy of the CAA in the future and what has to happen for the TAC to maintain this relevancy. The draft of the CAA revisions needs to go out to colleges for review in fall 2013. There was discussion of how to formulate a plan to ensure that the timeline regarding TAC takes place. The TAC will focus on the proposed transfer policies from the CAA Review Committee.

It is important to look at the role of Transfer Navigator within the process. Dr. Chapman stated that we needed something written in that states that universities have to participate as well.
TAC will receive an invitation with the information regarding the discipline team meetings to observe the process.

There was discussion of whether there is a guarantee of the second 30 credit hours as transferring seamlessly. The second pre-major course pathway will require a student to receive pre-major advising from the partnering university as to what the student will need to do for that major. In addition, there may be some discussion of removing courses from the CAA that may be more appropriate as upper level courses.

Dr. Chapman states that there has to be a mechanism built into the agreement regarding the maintenance of the CAA and notice of those changes to the public regarding those changes. In addition, tools to maintain the changes from the universities to the community colleges should be implemented as well.

Formal Approval of the December 14, 2012 Minutes

Rita asked for approval of the minutes of the December 14, 2012, meeting. A formal vote was held. Hearing no corrections, co-chair Rita Jerman made a motion that the minutes be approved as presented. The motion was seconded and passed unanimously.

Old Business:

C-Grade Transfer within UNC
Tenita polled 13 out of the 16 campuses that stated they would not take C- grades regarding transfer within UNC due to it is below a 2.0 GPA. This will need to be reviewed in regards to the CAA policy revisions.

Writing Intensive Designation
Dr. Hilbert asked whether the TAC or the NC Community College System Office needed to give communication regarding the writing intensive designation and their compatibility with the CAA. There was a discussion of the need for all 16 universities to agree as to the writing intensive designation. This could include a question to the UNC-GA regarding this matter.

Previous CRC Information Items

Items 5 regarding BIO 280 was brought for information.

There was discussion regarding the communication of the changes of the courses and how the UNC-GA would handle receipt of the information to the universities. In addition, there was discussion regarding how the information would be presented from TAC to the community colleges.
There was discussion regarding the necessity of the information to the committee, and if a vote is necessary. Dr. Morrissey suggested that the TAC discuss the policies and decide how to proceed in the future with “information items”.

There was a motion for the acceptance of the information items, and also changes in the title requests for ART 121 and ART 122. The motion was seconded and passed unanimously. ART 121 and ART 122 will be updated by Precious on the transfer list.

There was discussion regarding the necessity of this course being added to the CAA as a pre-major versus an elective. In addition, there was discussion regarding the FVP 240 course being added solely as an elective course. Dr. Morrissey stated that there may need to be caution in adding additional courses to the CAA, as this course is for a two-year terminal degree. There was discussion that this be handled as a course for a bilateral agreement. There was a motion to deny adding the FVP 240 course to the transfer course list, with the addition of the advice regarding handling this course as a course for a bilateral agreement. Revision of CAA Document Wesley Beddard stated that Dr. Chapman did an excellent presentation on the CAA revision process. Wesley also gave additional comments on the reverse transfer process.

The reverse transfer process will work on the issue of the transfer students that transfer without a degree. The process would involve notification to the community college for a student at a university that could qualify for a degree. The reverse transfer project currently has a grant and is working on a two year timeline for completion. Central Piedmont Community College will be the leading community college on the project, along with eleven other community colleges that are partnered with universities.

Wesley noted that Michelle Blackwell will be the Director of Reverse Transfer at UNC-GA and is the central contact person on the project. A more in-depth update will be given at the next meeting as the project develops.
